No. 1332.

Yesterday arriv'd a Mail from Holland.

Vienna, Sept. 12. O. S.

HE World now sees how the Imperial Arms and Councils have flouriſh'd ſince the unhappy Cataſtrophe of General Doxat, and the much-lamented Fate of Count Seckendorf.

Abſolvitq; Deos Rufini pœna nefandi.

Within theſe few Days the populace have committed freſh Outrages in this City, having broke the Windows of ſeveral Houſes, and utter'd very ſeditious Language. They inſulted the Houſe of General Schmettau to ſuch a Degree, that his Lady, who was then lying in, dy'd of the Fright, which the General has taken ſo much to Heart that he is himſelf dangerouſly ill. In ſhort, there was all the Reaſon in the World to apprehend an Inſurrection, if the Court had not been ſo prudent as to give Orders to all Tradeſmen to keep their Workmen at home, to forbid all Publick Houſes to ſerve Liquors after 10 at Night, to double the City Guards, to increaſe the Patrol, and to take other neceſſary Precautions for preſerving the Publick Tranquillity. Several Perſons having taken the Liberty to argue upon the Terms of the Peace, and even preſum'd to caſt very indecent Reflections upon the Conduct of the Marquis de Villeneuve, the Marquis de Mirepoix deſir'd an Audience of the Emperor, wherein he made great Complaints upon the Occaſion, and at the ſame time deſir'd the Emperor to exert his Authority, and to ſilence all thoſe Tongues which ſo unmercifully attack'd the Honour of the Miniſtry of France in general, and of the Marquis de Villeneuve in particular: He added moreover, that he thought himſelf affronted by ſuch free Reflections. The Anſwer which the Emperor made was perfectly conſiſtent with his Dignity. His Imperial Majeſty did not enter into the particular Heads of that Ambaſſador's Complaint, the rather becauſe he was not otherwiſe inform'd of what had paſs'd; however he promis'd that Inquiry ſhould be made into the Premiſes, and that he would give the neceſſary Orders, as the Caſe ſhould require. The Marquis de Mirepoix has declar'd very ſeriouſly, in more Places than one, what his Opinion was of the Publick Diſcourſe upon the Marquis de Villeneuve's Negociation, and has even been heard to ſay, that none but Fools and Blockheads could talk at that rate. 'Tis ſaid, that he has reſolv'd for very ſolid Reaſons to quit the Character of Ambaſſador, and to be content with the Title of Envoy from the King of France; and what is ſtill more ſurprizing is, the Report that the Prince of Lichenſtein who is at Paris will alſo drop the Title of Ambaſſador, and content himſelf with that of Envoy from the Emperor.

A Courier is diſpatch'd to Count Munich, to inform him of the Circumſtances of the Concluſion of the Preliminaries, and of the Emperor's ſolemn Diſowal of them. Mean time the neceſſary Inſtructions for finiſhing the Treaty of Peace with the Grand Vizier have been ſent to the Count de Neuperg, who receiv'd them on the 6th Inſtant in the Turks Camp. Till all things are entirely regulated, the Grand Vizier detains 6 Hoſtages with him, viz. the Count de Gros Colonel of the Regiment of Savoy, a Major, and 4 Captains, in the Number of which alſo is the young Count de Salm. As ſoon as the Ratifications of the Peace are exchang'd, the Turkiſh Vizier and the French Ambaſſador will ſet out for Conſtantinople.

'Tis confirmed that the Count de Neuperg, at the earneſt Requeſt of the Grand Vizir to the Emperor, is to go as the Emperor's firſt Ambaſſador and Plenipotentiary to the Congreſs for a definitive Treaty of Peace, or Truce with the Turks. 'Tis not doubted but the ſaid Congreſs will ſoon be open'd; and 'tis believed that the Emperor's Plenipotentiaries will have Orders to get Ruſſia to be included in it; the rather becauſe we hear that there is now in the Turkiſh Camp a Ruſſian Miniſter, who is ſaid to have the neceſſary full Powers and Inſtructions for concluding a Peace with the Porte.

Letters of the 15th ult. O. S. from Vienna, ſay, That on the 7th the Count de Neuperg ſigned a Truce for 25 Years between the Emperor and the Turks; and that the French Ambaſſador in the Turks Camp, had likewiſe ſigned a Treaty with the Grand Vizir reſpecting the Intereſts of the Court of Ruſſia; the Terms of which are not yet known.

All the Letters from Poland ſay, that Count Munich is marched with his Army towards Wallachia; and one Letter takes Notice that he found in the Archives of Choczim ſome very important Papers, diſcovering the State of Affairs at the Porte.

Thoſe from Leipſic ſay, that on the 17th Inſtant, O. S. the Queen of Poland was deliver'd of a Prince at the Palace of Hubertsbourg, and that there was a general Diſcharge of the Cannon of the Caſtle of Plegſenbourg, upon that Occaſion.

They write from Dublin, that laſt Sunday Se'ennight Sir John Freke, Bart. was marry'd to Miſs Broderick, Niece to the Lord Viſcount Middleton, a Lady of great Beauty, Merit, and a Fortune of 20000 l. And,

The Lady Betty Brounlow, with her Family, embark'd there Yeſterday Se'ennight for England.

A Man of War will be ready by the 6th of October, to convoy ſuch Ships as ſhall then ſail for Portugal and the Streights.

It was Yeſterday currently reported, that the Packet Boat from Holyhead for Dublin was loſt, with the Baggage of his Grace the Duke of Devonſhire, and that 16 of his Domeſticks were drown'd.

The Dragon of Briſtol, Capt. Burgeſs, having delivered Negroes for Account of the South Sea Company at Carthagena, was lately loſt going out of that Harbour in her Return to Jamaica.

Yeſterday came Advice from Exeter of the Death of Ethelred Davy, Eſq; late Mayor of that City, a very eminent Merchant, and Receiver General for Half the County of Devon.

His Majeſty has been pleas'd to create the Right Hon. the Lord Viſcount Duncanon of the Kingdom of Ireland, to be an Earl of the ſaid Kingdom, by the Stile and Title of Earl of Besborow.

To the Printers of the Daily Gazetteer.

I Have often thought, and a late Inſtance fully convinces me, That as it is the Duty of every Magiſtrate to puniſh Guilt, ſo it is equally incumbent on the Printers of our Publick Papers to do Juſtice to injur'd Innocence, eſpecially when ſuch Juſtice is not like to be obtained in any other way, as in the melancholy Caſe I am about to mention.

It is needleſs to point to particular Papers, but I could produce more than one or two printed in October 1736. wherein it was publiſh'd, 'That John 'Collins, a Sorter of Letters in the General Poſt-'Office, after Examination before Edward Carteret, 'Eſq; Poſt-Maſter General, and Sir William Billers, was committed to Newgate upon a violent 'Suſpicion of having ſtolen a 50 l. Bank Note, the 'Property of the Lady Betty Haſtings, out of a Let-'ter directed to her Ladyſhip, and delivered to the 'ſaid Collins on the 11th of September preceding, to 'be ſent by the Poſt.'

It is well known that the ſaid John Collins was upon ſuch Suſpicion only committed to Newgate, though ſeveral thouſand Pounds Bail were ready to be given for his Appearance, by ſome of the moſt ſubſtantial and reputable Citizens of the Pariſh where he had always liv'd.—That the ſaid John Collins was alſo ferter'd and chain'd in Newgate like the common Felons, is as certain; and that he was there confin'd cloſe for three Weeks till he was admitted to Bail by the Court of King's-Bench; and after being continued over for three Seſſions at the Old Baily, during which there was not the leaſt Appearance of Evidence to found a Bill upon, he and his Bail were honourably diſcharged from their Recognizances.

But now comes the Reaſon of this Addreſs to my worthy Fellow Citizens the Printers; thoſe I mean particularly who are concerned in the Daily and Weekly Papers.—As they have been inſtrumental in ſpreading the Diſgrace of the ſaid John Collins, it is hop'd they will think it but Juſtice to make it as publickly known, 'That Thomas Limpus, who was 'executed laſt Week near Wells in Somerſetſhire, 'for robbing the Weſtern Mail, was formerly a 'Porter and Stamper of Letters at the General Poſt-'Office, and as ſuch attended there on the Day 'above-mentioned, when the Letter incloſing the 'Bank Bill, and directed to the Lady Betty Haſtings 'as aforeſaid, was deliver'd at the Office by a Ser-'vant of Mr. Hoare the Banker: And that the ſaid 'Limpus did voluntarily confeſs to ſeveral Perſons be-'fore his Trial, particularly to the Juſtice of Peace 'by whom he was committed to Exeter Gaol, That 'hearing Mr. Hoare's Servant give ſuch a particular 'Charge with the Letter aforeſaid, by ſaying that 'there were Papers of Conſequence in it, he was 'tempted to pocket it. That he afterwards took out 'the Bank Bill, and ſealed up the Letter again with 'a Half penny; and that nothing grieved him ſo 'much, as that John Collins, then Sorter of Letters 'in the Poſt-Office, was ſent to Newgate upon that 'Account, whereas he was intirely innocent.'

Your Publication of this Confeſſion will go a great way to retrieve the young Man's Character, and may be ſome Comfort to his afflicted Parents and Friends, tho' it cannot be of any Service to the Subject of it, who dy'd ſo long ago as January laſt of a lingering Conſumption, owing to the Shock his Conſtitution received by the ſtrong Reflections which he made upon the Malice and Barbarity of his Proſecution, upon the Loſs of his Reputation, and of his Place in the Poſt Office, to which he was never reſtor'd; and by the deep Concern he was continually under to think how much his tender Parents ſuffered for him, and what an uncertain Proſpect he had of any time-ly Reparation of his injur'd Innocence, or Satisfaction for the Loſs of his Daily Bread.
